COBB COUNTY GRAND JURY REPORTS

Findings from the Inspections of:

Cobb County Adult Detention Center

The January/February Term Grand Jury visited the Cobb County Adult Detention Center on Tuesday, January 20, 2009 to perform a site visit.

Before the actual tour of the facility the Grand Jury was provided with lunch and during lunch we were able to watch the historic inauguration of the 44th President of the United States, Barack Obama on a big screen TV that we were informed was confiscated from drug dealers many years ago. Afterwards, our Sheriff, Neil Warren spoke to all members and thanked the Jurors for their service. He then introduced his Chief Deputy, Lynda Coker who gave everyone a lot of information about how the Sheriff's Office operates and also gave a history of the Center itself. Plans for the new jail now under construction were discussed and an explanation of the new technology being put into place for the inmates to visit with loved ones by video from an adjacent building. A question and answer session was followed by a tour of the entire complex starting with the infirmary. There are doctors on staff at all times including a clinical psychologist. Inmates are screened for TB and other communicable diseases upon entering the facility. This protects staff as well as other inmates. The next stop was what the Sheriff's Office referred to as A-Pod. This was what we (as Jurors) referred to as maximum security. It is dormitory style with a command center somewhat resembling a wheel with the center of the wheel being central command and viewing center. We could see the inmates and they could see us.

The female section or L-Pod was a more open L-shaped dormitory style of housing and again we could very easily see all the inmates. The women seemed to keep a much cleaner area than the men.

The next stop was the Work-Release Center where inmates who qualify can stay and maintain employment while serving out their sentence. They must pay a fee to the Center (that is based on a percentage of their income) and must also pay any child support they may owe. This facility is very nice and extremely clean and the inmates even have a place to do their laundry if they wish. It is a privilege to be selected for the work release program because you have to be able to be trusted out in the community and then return to the jail at the end of each work shift to continue your sentence.

The last stop was J-pod, which was the original Cobb County Prison (work-farm), built in 1943. It is well kept and the architecture was fascinating. Most of us thought it was like watching an old western movie. We were told that back when it was built there were lots of farm animals around there as this was a very rural area in 1943. This particular jail had very thick bars and old-fashioned benches and tables in the chow hall. There is no air conditioning available at J-Pod and it is a little cramped, but overall well cared for.

Overall, we should be very proud of this facility and the men and women who work here.

The January/February Term Grand Jury would like to say thank you to the Sheriff's Department and to each and every Law Enforcement Officer Cobb County has for their dedication and service. You all make us proud to live in Cobb County. Thank you so much.

COBB 911

Accreditation Manager Kathy Strickland gave us a very informative tour of the Cobb County 911 Call Center. The facility is operated entirely with funds generated from charges applied to phone bills. Landlines are charged $1.25/line while cell phones are charged $1.00/line. They were recently approved to add ten additional employees to their staff bringing the total number of operators to 120. There was at that time 18 opening positions. Dispatchers work 12-hour shifts with a one-hour break, though one can take short breaks as needed. There are 20 people per shift and each dispatcher is cross-trained in every position and rotated regularly.

The Call Center takes approximately 2000 calls per day. They service all of unincorporated Cobb County as well as the cities of Marietta, Kennesaw and Powder Springs Fire Departments. Each dispatcher will take 100-150 calls per shift and calls are normally answered within 3 rings. Exceptions to this normally occur because a call is being placed from a cell phone that is trying to locate an available tower. If there is high cell phone usage in a particular area it may take several rings to locate an available tower. Meanwhile, no line is ringing in the Call Center itself. The Call Center is phase 2 compliant which means the location of a call from a cell phone can be triangulated with 100 yards of its actual location. If a translator is needed, one can be obtained within 28 seconds through an outside service. Along with dispatching the proper agency to emergencies, dispatchers can also give medical emergency instructions through a list of screening questions. This is a state-of-the-art facility and seems to run very effectively and efficiently.

SMYRNA CITY JAIL

On January 27, 2009, members of the Grand Jury Penal Committee made a visit to the Smyrna City Jail. The members were greeted by Captain Jerry Waldrop of the Criminal Investigation Division. Both the Chief and Assistant Chief were out of town and unavailable. After being greeted we began our tour in the Records Division. The city is in the process of implementing a Police to Citizens record system which will allow citizens to access public records online. We also visited the Evidence Room, Squad Room, Investigative Office, 911 Center and Interrogation Rooms. The city currently has authorization for 97 Officers and 5 currently are on military leave. We also toured the lock-up facilities and kitchen area where the inmate's meals are prepared. No areas of concern were noted and all areas toured were very clean, orderly and appeared to be run in a very efficient fashion.

COBB COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY TRAINING ACADEMY

The January/February 2009 Term of the Cobb County Grand Jury toured the Public Safety Training Academy and engaged in an interactive session with Instructors to learn first hand how the men and women are trained to handle certain situations, especially those that involve weapons.

This was a very exciting and interesting day for us and we came away from our experience here with a deeper appreciation for our Police Officers and the Instructors, and with a great sense of pride for this particular facility. The firing range was our first stop and we felt exceptionally lucky on this particular day, as a class of new officers were engaging in training exercises. The range has 36 lanes with a wall in the middle giving the academy the ability to train two classes simultaneously. There is a trolley that takes the moving targets across the range as well as many other stationary targets for practice. There is a control tower equipped with a P.A. system where commands are given and the trainees must follow all instructions carefully and accurately in order to complete the course. Once the drills are mastered with "dry" ammo they are given live rounds and must qualify with 80% accuracy. Approximately 10% of the trainees are female. Mickey Lloyd, Director of Public Safety explained to the Grand Jury that the training begins in the classroom, which is the "heartbeat" of the training. There are standards to meet and they must be met and it is a P.O.S.T. (Peace Officers Standards and Training) rule that the trainees must qualify on the pistol range by the end of their first week. Some have never held a gun before their training here or driven a car bigger than a Toyota and are put into a big Ford Crown Victoria. Humorously, Director Lloyd commented that the trainees who could not shoot were usually the ones who could not drive either and they either drop out, or are sent home.

After a brief question and answer session, we were taken inside to an internal theatre with an LCD projector and infrared camera system known as the "prism". This theatre simulates real situations that officers may encounter in their day-to-day duties. It houses a piece of equipment overhead called a shoot-back cannon that fires small plastic balls at the officers similar to those in paint ball guns and can be programmed to fire in single shots or multiple shots, much like real automatic weapons and fires at a velocity of 100 feet per second. There are many different scenarios. Once the trainees have taken part in the training exercise chosen, the entire situation can be played back for review to assess the officer's accuracy. This particular play back feature eliminates any arguments between instructors and trainees as to where the shots fired landed. There are only a few counties in the country who have a facility like this for training their officers and we all felt very proud that Cobb County was one of them. The theatre is used for in-service training by FBI, GBI and Air Marshals as well, but Cobb County has priority over these agencies for their officers. This type of training is called judgmental shooting. Trainees are taught that before they fire their weapons, they must be able to consider three things: (1) Ability (there exists a means or capability, either physical or mechanical for a person to be able to cause death or serious injury to the officer or a third party). (2) Opportunity (the person is within an effective range and/or has time to utilize a physical or mechanical means to cause death or serious injury to the officer or a third party and (3) Jeopardy (there has been a verbal command or a physical action which manifests an intent on the part of the person to cause death or serious physical injury to the officer or a third party. The Grand Jury members were given an opportunity to try their skills with the simulator and some did very well. Others, not so well, but it was very exciting for everyone to have this opportunity.

After 23 weeks of training and another 10-12 weeks out on the street being monitored by another officer whose goal is to get the trainee through, these men and women have earned the right to call themselves Cobb County Police Officers.

COBB COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION COMMITTEE

Presentation done by Rebecca Gutowsky, Transit Division Manager with Trevor Carson, Transit Operations Monitor and Karl von Hagel, Airport Manager.

CCT started in 1987. This is a number one public transportation option throughout Cobb County and to Downtown Atlanta via Local, Express, or Para-transit services.

They offer local runs with 8 connecting with Marta Rail. The Express route travels directly into Downtown Atlanta or connects with Marta Rail. CCT offers five park and ride lot locations.

There have been only 2 fare increases since 2007. The current fixed route fare is $1.50 and Express route is $3.00. Seniors, youth, and persons with disabilities qualify for discounts.

Anyone unable to reach a fixed route bus stop due to a disability can apply for Para-transit service. This is curb-to-curb service within a ¾ mile boundary of a fixed route for a fee of $3.00 one way.

In 2004 CCT added over 16,000 hours of service and in October of 2006 added routes to increase 13,000 hours of service per year.

All the Para-transit buses were replaced in 2001 and in 2002 100% of the fleet were replaced.

Having an outside vendor take control of the care of the buses has been successful and quite cost efficient. The 5 year contract offers a 1 year option.

Future improvements include real time transit information. With computer access the commuter will be provided with the location and availability of the bus.

Adding park & ride locations, customer service centers and public bathrooms at MTC & CTC, replacing bus stop signs, and adding sidewalks and shields around some bus stops all show the focus of how CCT offers convenient, accessible, safe, reliable, and efficient service for commuters.

COBB COUNTY TAX ASSESSORS OFFICE COMMITTEE

On January 27, 2009 members of the Tax Assessor's Office Committee performed on on-site visit. The Chief Appraiser of Cobb County, Philip Y. Hogsed and four other staff members were present at the meeting. To our surprise, we were only the 4th Grand Jury to visit this facility in the past 22 years.

The Primary function of the Tax Assessor's Office is to appraise personal and commercial properties for tax collection. The appraiser's make an attempt to visit as many properties as possible, however; due to the shear volume, many properties must be assessed using comparable values of surrounding properties. Members of the committee were very interested to know how their current personal properties were being assessed with the decline in the current market. We were told that Cobb County values had not declined as much as other areas of the country, however; this did not answer the question most members had which was "will our current tax bill be less due to the decline in value". We were told that should a property owner disagree with their assessment they can appeal. Mr. Hogsed informed us that his office was handling a record number of appeals and it is in the property owner's best interest to act quickly as the window for submitting your appeal is very short. We were also interested to learn of certain tax breaks available to property owners including CUVA (current use value tax) given to property owners using their land to raise or house animals such as horses or other farm animals. The tax per acre is considerably less for these people.

A tour of the offices followed our question and answer session and we found all offices and cubicles to be very well kept and orderly- of particular interest was the Map Room, where old maps of our county could be viewed.

Recommendation:

The committee respectfully request that due to the decreasing property values, a possible re-assessment of ~~personal~~ ^{Real} properties would be in order.

COBB COUNTY PROBATE COURT COMMITTEE

On January 27, 2009, a five-person committee consisting of Grand Jury members Fred Ross, William Denney, Colleen Reyerson, Angela Woody, and Estella Hewett visited the Probate Court.

Ophelia Chan, Senior Clerk and April Davis, Legal Administrative Assistant, led the committee on a tour of the facility. The Probate Court is presided over by Chief Judge Kelli Wolk and employs 17 personnel. The Court has been located in the Superior Court Building on Waddell Street since 1996. The facility is housed on two floors, encompassing the courtroom, offices, and storage rooms for records dating back to 1865. Guardianship and firearms application files are sealed and stored in a locked room.

The Probate Court has jurisdiction in the probate of wills and all associated functions. Ms. Chan explained to the Committee that "probate" means literally to "prove" a will. The Court's primary function is to ensure that estates and guardianships are administered according to law. The Court also has jurisdiction in the issuance of marriage license; issuance of firearms licenses; as well as ancillary services such as issuance of fireworks permits, recording of elected officials' oaths and bonds, and certificates of residence. Unlike some other counties in Georgia, the Cobb County Probate Court does not also serve as a vital statistics office.

Applications for concealed weapons licenses have increased significantly over the past two years, from an average of 20 to 80 applications per day, representing an approximate average increase in daily fees from $785 to $3140. The staff noted that the Court accepts only cash as payment for both concealed weapons and marriage licenses. For concealed weapons license applications, the Court utilizes a digital system called LIVESCAN to submit applicant fingerprints electronically to the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, and also utilizes NICS (National Instant Criminal Background Check System) reports.

Presently, all Probate Court records are microfilmed. The Court recently purchased scanners to electronically retain files internally. Future plans include online access to records. As all Court documents are either stored permanently or for a specified period of time (firearm licenses are retained for seven years), the Probate Court is rapidly outgrowing its limited storage facilities, as well as existing shelving units. The staff projects that the Court will exhaust its existing storage capacity by 2011. As the Court is not slated to relocate to the new Courthouse when completed, off-site storage for older records will be needed.

Currently, office space is not being fully utilized as the Chief Clerk's Office is being used only to store forms due to ceiling leaks from repeatedly clogged toilets in the Superior Court holding cells directly above the Probate Court

Recommendations

The Committee respectfully recommends that the Probate Court be provided additional off-site storage facilities to house older records, as well as additional shelving units for existing storage rooms. Additionally, the Committee recommends that the water leakage issue from the Superior Court holding cells be resolved so the Chief Clerk's Office can be restored to its intended use as office space.

COBB COUNTY PROPERTY MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE

On January 27, 2009, a committee consisting of Grand Jury members: Jennifer DuBose, Katrina Addison, and Rebecca Lawson met with John Reida, Director of Cobb County Government Property Management. Mr. Reida presented the committee with the Scope of Work, Mission Statement, Organizational Chart, Goals and a Budget Summary.

SCOPE/MISSION

Property Management's Scope of Work is divided into two categories of funding. The first category is Fund 3640, General Department Operations. This department provides services in land acquisition, design, new construction, renovation and improvements, facility operation and management, maintenance and custodial services as required by Cobb County departments. Their department oversees more than 100 existing properties including Police and Fire Department facilities, the 911 Center, Senior Centers, Libraries, etc. Mr. Reid compared their operations to those of a commercial developer because their goals dictate similar practices such as maximizing the use of land, materials and staff for cost effectiveness. The department is also bound by all laws that apply to the public sector such as permits and architectural requirements. Their mission is "to provide timely and cost effective management of existing and future Cobb County properties by proactively delivering quality services while maximizing customer satisfaction.

Currently, Property Management employs 80 staff members. Additional labor is provided by inmate crews managed by an inmate supervisor. The department is comprised of one administrative division under the Director and two operating divisions, maintenance and construction. The maintenance division is largest with 49 employees. It handles all routine and special request customer service issues as well as preventive maintenance for facilities and equipment. This includes custodial, building, and grounds maintenance as well as an energy analyst for managing energy costs. The construction division currently employs 26 staff members. It handles all planning for changes to the facility infrastructure, new construction and renovations. This includes program/project management, services for new facilities, in-house design and renovation and in-house millwork. Three project managers provide construction management services for projects contracted through the private sector. One example is the new Superior Court Building expanding the current 240,000 square feet to 440,000 square feet.

The second category is Fund 4820, Parking Deck Operation. The scope of operation is limited to a seven-level parking structure which provides parking for county employees and the general public on the government campus. It also provides parking for county vehicles on the top levels. Property Management provides maintenance and operational support including collection of parking fees, repairs, replacements, maintenance, custodial, utilities oversight and payments. The mission is to provide effective management and quality services.

Fund 3640 General Department Operating

- Administrative will strive to improve timeliness and consistent communication from construction to maintenance as well as evaluate staffing and organizational structure.
- Maintenance will improve response to maintenance and service requests and improve resource management. They will achieve their goals by expanding the Corrigo work order system which interfaces with Nextel phones for work orders and materials. Also, managers will perform regular site visits to assess county properties. They will develop the maintenance and custodial plan for the new Superior Courthouse which will nearly double their facility responsibility. They will also improve the consistency of evaluating utility costs and reporting savings using the FASER software. Finally, maintenance will strive to improve the safety, maintainability, comfort and appearance of county facilities.
- Construction seeks to improve the accuracy of budgets and schedules, deliver projects on time and in budget, standardize design specifications for ease of maintenance, increase compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act (mostly in parks), give project managers full responsibility for schedules and budgets from the beginning of the assigned projects and to implement new policies for the County Green Building Policy promoting LEED compliance.

Fund 4820 Parking Deck Operations

- Fund 4820 will strive to provide superior customer services with a courteous and knowledgeable staff and accurate transactions. They will maintain financial accountability by maintaining accurate daily records. Finally, they will manage the physical plant to ensure a safe, clean and welcoming environment by improved policing, removal of waste, maintaining systems, visual inspections, repainting, upgrading, and maintaining the lighting system for improved security.

BUDGET

Mr. Reida reviewed the budget summary for Fiscal Year 2007-2010. He indicated that the budget as presented is only for maintenance. All other projects are considered separately. For example, the new Superior Court Building will be paid for with a 1% sales tax approved by the electorate under SPLOST. Mr. Reida acknowledged that cost-saving procedures are even more important due to the economy and decreased tax base but that cost efficiency is always a part of the equation. He added that some of the departments' stated goals requiring new software or upgrading systems are not timely. Currently, the cost of an upgrade is reviewed based on a 10 year payoff.

CONCLUSION

Overall, the Property Management Division of Cobb County has a detailed strategic plan in place including goals both long and short term. Considering the size of Property Management, Mr. Reida seemed to have a balanced hands-on approach while continuing to delegate to the various division heads to ensure success of these goals.

COBB COUNTY MEDICAL EXAMINER COMMITTEE

A group of Grand Jury members toured the Cobb County Medical Examiner's Office on Tuesday, January 27, 2009. The Office is responsible for investigating all sudden, unexplained, unnatural, or suspicious deaths reported in Cobb County. Michael Cosper led our inspection tour of the facility and knowledgeably answered our questions. We briefly met Dr. Brian Frist, Cobb County's Medical Examiner, who has held the position for many years. In addition to Dr. Frist and Mr. Cosper, the office has four forensic investigators (Mr. Cosper informed us that they were in the final stages of hiring a fifth), two forensic technicians, and one secretarial support member.

The primary responsibility of the Medical Examiner's Office is to determine the manner and cause of death in cases where the decedent's death is suspicious. For "manner of death" there are five possible conclusions: (1) natural (2) accidental (3) suicide (4) homicide or (5) undetermined. For "cause of death", there are an infinite number of possible diseases or disorders as well as other pathological processes that can cause death. The duties of the Medical Examiner's Office include the performance of autopsies and assisting the state in criminal homicide cases.

Dr. Frist holds a degree in forensic pathology, which is a highly specialized branch of medicine dealing with disease and disorders of the body as they relate to legal principles and cases. His job requires that he and his assistants use principles of anatomy, physiology, chemistry, medicine, surgery, physics, and in some cases, botany, to determine the manner and cause of death. The duties of forensic investigators and technicians involve precise procedures designed to support accurate documentation of the facts and circumstances relative in a case. These duties require technical expertise in photography, making and recording accurate weights and measurements, fingerprinting and swabbing for evidence, as well as obtaining blood specimens for laboratory tests. The employees of the Medical Examiner's Office go to great lengths to uphold the integrity of the evidence they obtain for criminal cases to ensure that justice is served to all persons involved. A typical forensic investigation at the Medical Examiner's Office costs taxpayers approximately $850.

NOTE:

The Grand Jury's first observation of the Medical Examiner's Office was that although it was very clean, it was far too small. There was one room used for office space for two (soon to be three) employees, a conference room, and storage. The autopsy room has extremely limited space as well as the refrigerated morgue. Performing more than one autopsy simultaneously in the small laboratory simply is not done due to the risk of cross-contamination of evidence. At times, unpleasant odors from the autopsy room waft into the front office. We observed the evidence room, which was packed from floor to ceiling. What little space was left in the middle of the floor has also been used to store evidence. They need more space and a more efficient ventilation system.

General Reports

The January/February 2009 Term Grand Jury has inspected the reports of receipts and disbursements of the Clerk of Superior Court, the County Treasurer, Probate Court and the Sheriff of Cobb County and found them to be in order.
